Alvarez, at the head of a small party, was still in camp a few leaugues from Acapulco, and Santa Anna is reported distant not more than four days march, and moving on toward the insurgent lines. He is not leading the troops in person. Every preparation has been made by Alvarez and the prominent supporters of his came to leave the country from Acapulco when danger threatens, a small schooner is in read-sees in the harbor to convey the General from the shores.

We are authoritatively advised that the course of the U. S. Consul at Acapulco has been ferent to discharged them.
